ABSTRACT

The "Acquisitions List" of demographic books and articles is issued every two months by the Katharine Dexter McCormick Library. Divided into two parts, the first contains a list of books most recently acquired by the Library, each one annotated and also marked with the Library call number. The second part consists of a list of annotated articles, classified according to the Planned Parenthood - World Population (PPWP) Coding System, which have been selected from the 150 scientific and professional journals received by the Library. The purpose of the list is to assist PPWP Affiliates and other organizations in easily arranging their informational materials in a systematic scheme. A form for ordering xeroxed copies of articles is included. (BL)

S a series sponsored by the American Sociological Ass'n that endeavors to keep the social scientist abreast of the methodological changes in his field.

FAMILY PLANNING RESEARCH

- 3.61 DEMOGRAPHIC TECHNIQUES OF FERTILITY ANALYSIS (Family Planning Research B6 and Evaluation Manual Number 2), Donald J. Bogue. Chicago: Univ. of d Chicago-Community and Family Study Center, 1971. 116 pp. Sets forth techniques with which researchers can exhaust the information contained in census and survey data in regard to how much, if any, birth rates have declined since major family planning programs were introduced.
- 3.61 FAMILY PLANNING IMPROVEMENT THROUGH EVALUATION (Family Planning Research B6 and Evaluation Manual Number 1), Donald J. Bogue, ed. Chicago: Univ.
E of Chicago-Community and Family Study Center, 1970. 82 pp. The first of a series of manuals prepared as training materials for workshops on family planning evaluation to be held in one of the developing nations of Asia, Latin America, or Africa.
- 3.61 FURTHER SOCIOLOGICAL CONTRIBUTIONS TO FAMILY PLANNING RESEARCH, Donald B6 J. Bogue, ed. Chicago: Univ. of Chicago Community and Family Study
S Center, 1970. 459 pp. $6.75. A sequel to Sociological Contributions to Family Planning Research published in 1967, containing additional studies conducted by graduate students working under the sponsorship of the Community and Family Study Center.

- 3.61 TECHNIQUES OF PREGNANCY HISTORY ANALYSIS (Family Planning Research and B6 Evaluation Manual Number 4), Donald J. Bogue and Elizabeth J. Bogue.
t Chicago: Univ. of Chicago-Community and Family Study Center, 1970.
156 pp. Attempts to systematize the collection of data, computerize the processing of data, and codify the steps involved in adjusting and interpreting the data of pregnancy histories.
- 3.61 CULTURE AND POPULATION: A COLLECTION OF CURRENT STUDIES, Steven Polgar, C3 ed. Chapel Hill, N.C.: Univ. of N.C., Carolina Population Center, c Monograph 9, 196 pp. $1.50. Includes recent papers, many of them on work in progress, which relate to three topical foci: ecology, family structure and childspacing, and family planning programs.

STAFFING & TRAINING-PROFESSIONAL & PARA-PROFESSIONAL

- 3.75 NONPROFESSIONALS IN THE HUMAN SERVICE, Charles Grosse, Wm. E. Henry, G7 James G. Kelly, eds. San Francisco: Jossey-Bass Inc., 1969. 263 pp. n $8.50. This volume's in-depth studies reflect the growing acceptance of the paraprofessional in the human services.

FAMILY PLANNING PROGRAMS-ABROAD

- 3.82 FAMILY PLANNING IN TAIWAN; AN EXPERIMENT IN SOCIAL CHANGE, Ronald T3 Freedman and John Y. Takeshita. Princeton, N.J.: Princeton Univ.
f Press, 1969. 501pp. $16.00. Presented as a partial guide for future studies in Taiwan and elsewhere, this study attempts to answer such questions as 1.What were the existing patterns of fertility and family planning before the organized program began? 2.How effective was the experimental family planning program and 3.What happens after acceptance?

POPULATION

- 5 WESTERN EUROPEAN CENSUSES, 1960; AN ENGLISH LANGUAGE GUIDE, Judith Blake B4.5 and Jerry J. Donovan. Berkeley, Calif.: Univ. of California Population w Monograph Series, No.8, 1971. 421 pp. $3.25 pap. Gives the user a compendium in English of the contents of all the Western European censuses for the 1960 period from which he can discern whether comparative analysis of a particular research topic is possible, and can make a preliminary decision concerning which tables in any of the 22 censuses interest him and where he can locate them or obtain photocopies of them.
5. DEMOGRAPHY AND EDUCATIONAL PLANNING, Betty MacLeod, ed. Toronto, Ont.: 05 The Ontario Institute for Studies in Education, 1970. Monograph Series d No.7, 274pp. Papers from a conference on implications of demographic factors for educational planning and research, sponsored by the Ontario Institute for Studies in Education, June 9-10, 1969.

POPULATION-U.S.A.

- 5.2 DIFFERENTIAL CURRENT FERTILITY IN THE UNITED STATES, Lee-Jay Cho, C4.5 Wilson H. Grabill and Donald J. Bogue. Chicago: Univ. of Chicago, d Community and Family Study Center, 1970. 426 pp. $6.75. By utilizing the Censuses of 1910, 1940, 1950 and 1960 this monograph studies the contributions of different subgroups to the population growth in the United States.

URBAN PLANNING

- 5.21 THE URBANIZATION OF THE EARTH, Jorge Arango. Introd.by Jose Luis Sert.
A7 Boston: Beacon Press, 1970. 175 pp. $6.95. The author foresees a u rational human environment in which nature becomes a necessary part of urban life, a part which must be incorporated as urban areas develop.
- 5.21 METROPOLIS AND REGION IN TRANSITION, Beverly Duncan and Stanley Lieberman.
D8 Beverly Hills, Calif.: Sage Publications, Inc., 1970. 320 pp. $9.95.
m An historical, economic interpretation of the evolution of some major urban centers which attempts to provide the perspective needed to understand why certain cities now play distinctive roles in the spatial organization of the national economy.

POPULATION-ENVIRONMENT

- 5.3 BEHAVIOR AND ENVIRONMENT: THE USE OF SPACE BY ANIMALS AND MEN, Aristide 17 H. Esser, ed. New York: Plenum Press, 1971. 411 pp. $17.50. Proceedings b of an International Symposium held at the 1968 meeting of the American Association for the Advancement of Science in Dallas, Texas.
- 5.3 THE PEOPLE PROBLEM: WHAT YOU SHOULD KNOW ABOUT GROWING POPULATION AND F7 VANISHING RESOURCES, Dean Fraser. Bloomington, Ind.: Indiana Univ.
P Press, 1971. 248 pp. $6.95. Written in layman's language, the need for limiting our population and improving our environment
- 5.3 AGENDA FOR SURVIVAL; the ENVIRONMENTAL CRISIS-2, Harold W. Helfrich, Jr., ed.
H5 New Haven, Conn.: Yale Univ. Press, 1970. 234 pp. This volume of papers a and a similar book which preceded it (The Environmental Crisis) is derived from the two-year Yale School of Forestry Symposium on "Issues in the Environmental Crises" intended to serve as a reflective examination of our ecological problems.

RELIGIOUS AND ETHICAL VIEW

6. MARRIAGE AND SEX: A CHRISTIAN PERSPECTIVE, Charles P. Kindergan K6 New York: Bruce Pub. Co., 1970. 159 pp. $1.95. Intended for use by m adult discussion groups.
6. THE LIVELY DEBATE; RESPONSE TO HUMANAE VITAE, William H. Shannon.
S4.5 New York: Sheed & Ward, 1970. 216 pp. $3.95. Presents the various 1 stand taken before and since the publication of the encyclical, Humanae Vita.

SEXUAL BEHAVIOR

- 7.3 THE COUPLE; A SEXUAL PROFILE BY MR. AND MRS. K. as told to Herta
K2 Gherlter and Alfred Palca. N.Y.: Coward, McCann & Geoghegan, Inc., 1971. 181 pp. $5.95. A husband's and wife's utterly frank account of their experience in the Masters & Johnson sex clinic.

TEENAGERS & SEX

- 7.31.2 SEX: A BOOK FOR TEENAGERS, Charles Murphy and Linda Day.
M8 New York: Herder and Herder, Inc., 1970. 63 pp. $1.75. A course s about sex for the teenager in which questions, based on theories and ideas derived from various disciplines--the natural and social sciences and theology--are presented with the hope that they will enable the teenager to make rules for himself through his own answers.

SEX EDUCATION

- 7.32 SEX: TEACHING UNITS FOR THE RELIGIOUS EDUCATION OF ADOLESCENTS, M8 Charles Murphy and Linda Day. New York: Herder and Herder, Inc., s 1970. 144 pp. $2.45. Aims to assist students in a healthy, realistic adjustment to their developing sexuality so that they experience it not as a problem but as an enhancement of their lives.

EDUCATION IN FAMILY PLANNING & HUMAN SEXUALITY FOR PROFESSIONALS

- 8.1 EDUCATION FOR SEXUALITY; CONCEPTS AND PROGRAMS FOR TEACHING, John J.
B8 Burt and Linda A. Brower. Phila., Pa.: W.B. Saunders Co., 1970. 508pp.
e $9.75 pap. The first three parts of the book are designed to acquaint the teacher with basic information and concepts related to sexuality.
In Part IV, the scope and sequence of the sex education curriculum for elementary, junior and senior high school is presented.
- 8.11 MACY CONFERENCE ON FAMILY PLANNING, DEMOGRAPHY, AND HUMAN SEXUALITY M8 MEDICAL EDUCATION, Vernon W. Lippard. New York: Josiah Macy, Jr. Found-f ation, 1971. A conference concerned with the necessity of instruction in family planning and human sexuality early in the medical school curriculum and the importance of having representatives of several disciplines participate, in that the social, behavioral and biological aspects of these subjects deserve equal consideration.

- 2.11.11 ARONSON, H.B, MAGORA, F. and SCHENKER, J.G
Side Effect of Oral Contraceptives on Blood Viscosity Effect American Journal of Obstetrics and Gynecology, vol. 110, no. 7, August 1, 1971 pp. 997-1001

Blood viscosity and hematocrit were examined in 47 young women before and during the administration of two different oral contraceptives. In 17 percent of the patients, increases in blood viscosity and in hematocrit were noted within 3 months and were more marked after 6 months of therapy. Cessation of these agents resulted in a rapid return to pre-treatment values. It is suggested that an increase in blood viscosity and/or hematocrit might be an indication to stop the administration of oral contraceptives.

- 2.11.11 BRIGGS, Michael H. and BRIGGS, Maxine Effects of Oral Ethinylestradiol on Serum Proteins in Normal Women
Contraception, vol.3,no. 6, June 1971, pp. 381-386

Daily oral doses of 10, 20, 50 and 75mcg. of ethinylestradiol were administered for three weeks to groups of normal healthy women. Changes in blood levels of albumin, ceruloplasmin, total iron-binding capacity, haptoglobin and arosomuroid were followed. The estrogen decreased serum albumin, haptoglobin and arosomuroid; increased ceruloplasmin; but had no effect on iron-binding capacity.

Thrombophebitis Among Oral and Normal Contraceptive Users
Obstetrics and Gynecology, vol. 38, no.2, August 1971, pp. 259-263

Study reaffirms earlier findings that there is no correlation between the use of oral contraceptives and death due to pulmonary embolism, coronary thrombosis or coronary infarction in the absence of a predisposing medical condition.

Cervical Cytology and Histology in Patients Treated with a Combination Oral Contraceptive in Low Dosage
Contraception, vol. 3, no. 6, June 1971, pp. 415-424.

Data obtained on the cervical cytology and histology, when required of patients under contraceptive medication with norgestrel combined with ethinyl estradiol were analyzed. No abnormal findings were reported during the third, fourth and fifth years of medication.

204)

- 2.11.13 CONNELL, Elizabeth B. and CONNELL, John T.
C-Reactive Protein in Pregnancy and Contraception American Journal of Obstetrics and Gynecology, vol. 110, no. 5, July 1, 1971 pp. 633-639.

C-reactive protein (CRP) is a complex glycoprotein found in serum. It is an abnormal, nonspecific, acute-phase protein seen in pregnancy and with tissue injury and necrosis. Sera from 4 groups of patients were studied for CRP. 13% of an unselected control group had CRP. 60% of sera from pregnant patients contained CRP, but sustained increase with advancing pregnancy was not observed. 92% of patients receiving combination contraceptive preparations, 52% on sequential contraceptive, and 14 % receiving continuous low-dosage progestogen therapy without added estrogen developed CRP.

- 2.11.15 MORRIS, Naomi and UDRY, J. Richard Sexual Frequency and Contraceptive Pills
Social Biology, vol. 18, no. 1, March 1971, pp. 40-45.

No significant change in average sexual frequency was observed as a consequence of use of oral contraceptives.

Galactorrhea and Contraceptive Practices
Obstetrics and Gynecology, vol. 38, no. 2, August 1971, pp. 286-289.

Results suggest that galactorrhea in multiparous women is often a normal finding, and that contraceptive steroids do not increase the incidence of breast secretion.

- 2.12.1 TEJUJA, Sabita
Site Clinical Significance of Hemoglobin Levels in Users of the IUD-- Effects A 4 year Study
American Journal of Obstetrics and Gynecology, vol. 110, no. 5, July 1, 1971, pp. 735-737.

The purpose of the present investigation was to study the hemoglobin levels in women using an IUD over a period of 4 years and to correlate these with the pattern of vaginal bleeding observed in these women. Where medical facilities permit, a full blood investigation should be carried out in patients intending to use the IUD and routine administration of hematinics to women with hemoglobin levels lower than 10Gm. per 100 ml. is recommended.

ABORTION

- 208) 2.3 FORD, Charles V., ATKINSON, R.M. and BRAGONIER, J.R.
Therapeutic Abortion: Who Needs a Psychiatrist?
Obstetrics and Gynecology, vol. 38, no. 2, August 1971, pp. 206-213
- Clinical experience in evaluating more than 500 women requesting therapeutic abortion has led to the development of 10 diagnostic syndromes. Inclusion of a woman into one of these syndromes implies the need for psychiatric consultation and the probability of adverse emotional sequelae if abortion is performed.
- 209) 2.3 GUTTMACHER, Alan F. et al

- 210) 2.3 HALL, Robert E.
Induced Abortion in New York City
American Journal of Obstetrics and Gynecology, vol. 110, no. 5, July 1, 1971, pp. 601-611
- A report of 6 recent abortion studies conducted in New York City.
- 211) 2.3 KAHN, James B., et al
Surveillance of Abortions in Hospitals in the United States, 1970
HSMHA Health Reports, vol. 86, no. 5 May 1971, pp. 423-430.
- Abortion is an acceptable alternative to an unwanted birth for many U.S. women. What influence this more widespread practice of abortion will have on the use of contraceptives, unwanted pregnancies, and mortality associated with illicit abortions remains to be determined. Continued intensive efforts to collect reliable statistics on the practice of abortion are essential to the solution of these problems.
- 212) 2.3 PAKTER, Jean, HARRIS, David and NELSON, Frieda Surveillance of Abortion Program in New York City Bulletin of the New York Academy of Medicine, vol. 47, no. 8, August 1971, pp. 853-874
- The New York City experience of the first six months after the new abortion law.

500 Outpatient Abortions Performed under Local Anesthesia
Obstetrics and Gynecology, vol. 38, no. 2, August 1971 pp. 199-205.

Advantages of outpatient treatment are outlined. Patient response to this type of service has been excellent.

- 214) 2.3 SWARTZ, D.P., and PARANJE, M.K.
Methods Abortion: Medical Aspects in Municipal Hospital
Bulletin of the New York Academy of Medicine, vol. 47, no. 3, August 1971, pp. 845-852

Comments upon the medical aspects of abortion as observed from June to December 1970, briefly describing some of the problems of the methods involved.

- 215) 2.3 WOLFF, John R., NIELSON, Paul E., and SCHILLER, Patricia J.
Attitudes Therapeutic Abortion: Attitudes of Medical Personnel Leading to Complications in Patient Care
American Journal of Obstetrics and Gynecology, vol. 110, no. 5, July 1, 1971, pp. 730-733.

This study of the records of 50 consecutive patients undergoing a therapeutic abortion when compared with a control group reveals significant differences in attitudes of the staff that affect patient care. Persistent themes are uneasiness and shame concerning personal participation, which led to avoidance by both attending staff and residents with a resultant inadequate experience. Information obtained from a series of seminars points to the conclusion that concern with the issue of causing a death remains paramount. Polarization and resolution of these feelings are fundamental and necessary if the demands of society for more abortions are to be met.

STERILIZATION

- 216) 2.4 McMASTER, Robert H. and ANSARI, A.H.
Methods Vaginal Tubal Ligation
Obstetrics and Gynecology, vol. 38, no. 1, July 1971, pp. 44-50.

Whenever performed in a judiciously selected patient, the vaginal approach was associated with very little risk of immediate or late postoperative complications.

- 217) 2.4 ZINSSER, Hans H.
Surgical Sterilization
Medical Aspects of Human Sexuality, vol. 5, no. 3, August 1971, 3pp.

Opposition to surgical sterilization is chiefly emotional.
Education of the public is needed for widespread acceptance.

mination

Within a few years, a refined technique of family planning may allow people to predetermine, prior to conception, the sex of their unborn children. People would then be able to realize their ideal family, not only with respect to spacing and number but also sex composition. These data suggest but do not establish, that people favor sex-choosing so that they may have smaller families.

Inject- and Estradiol Undecelate ables American Journal of Obstetrics and Gynecology, vol. 110, no. 5, July 1, 1971 pp. 740-742.

A total of 823 cycles are recorded using a combination of norethisterone enanthate and estradiol undecelate in two-dosage schedules as a one-a-cycle contraceptive. There were no pregnancies, indicating 100% effectiveness and no important side effects were encountered apart from some changes in menstrual pattern.

x3.72.2 Fertility after Insertion of an IUCD in Taiwan's Family-Planning Program
Social Biology, vol. 18, no. 1, March 1971, pp. 46-53.

The post-insertion fertility of women who accepted an IUCD in the family planning program was low in relation to what might have been expected under various assumptions. The level of post-insertion fertility was seen to depend, quite obviously, on whether or not the women terminated the IUCD and, less obviously, on whether or not the women wanted more children. Other characteristics had an effect as well, including age, number of living sons, and prior use of contraception or abortion.

x3.31.1 The Timing of the First Birth, Female Roles, and Black Fertility x7.4 Milbank Memorial Fund Quarterly, vol. 49, no. 3, July 1971, Part 1, pp. 329-361.

225) Cont.

It is proposed that the timing of the first birth is a critical factor in generating subsequent fertility. The earlier timing of the first birth of black women and their different role and fertility patterns may largely explain the differences by race in completed fertility. From a policy standpoint, the welfare of women may be benefited more by trying to avert an unplanned first birth than by trying to avert excess fertility. This should be the family planning strategy for all women, above and below the poverty line. It would serve to reduce their completed fertility and to enhance their social and economic status. It can only be effective strategy however, if challenging and rewarding activities are offered as alternatives to early motherhood.

Correlates of Oral Contraception Continuation
HSMHA Health Reports, vol. 86, no. 5, May 1971, pp. 449-456.

Several patients characteristics were found to be related to continuation. In composite form, patients with the highest continuation rates were in the center age group (18-24), in the 2-3 parity category, living with their husbands, were daughters of relatively low-parity mothers, and were able to fill prescriptions in less time with more convenient methods of transportation.

Family Planning: An Expanded Role for Paramedical Personnel
American Journal of Obstetrics and Gynecology, vol. 110, no. 7,

228) Cont.

Examines the role of the physician in the delivery of family planning services today. Arguments are presented in support of paramedical prescription of oral contraceptives and insertion of IUD's. Evidence is presented that paramedics can be taught to do IUD insertion.

Inadequacy of a One-Method Family Planning Program
Social Biology, vol. 18, no. 1, March 1971, pp. 1-9.

While it is now generally accepted that a single contraceptive is not enough to support an entire family-planning program, it is still worth assessing how much may be accomplished by a single contraceptive in order to acquire more perspective on how much of the job has to be shouldered by supplementary procedures-- alternative contraceptives, abortion, and sterilization. This paper presents first results from a computerized matrix model and, more specifically, estimates the impact of the IUCD consistent with given ages of acceptance and retention rates.
